PRAYER REQUESTS

New Church Partners

With new dates being set up at Fellowship Week and more throughout the year, I have many opportunities coming up to add more supporting churches.

Traveling Safety

All that Texas driving definitely put a strain on my car! I have plenty of cross country driving coming up and could absolutely use some prayers for my safety while I am on the road.

Ministry in Nicaragua

Ministry in Nicaragua has taken off in the past few months! Some of my missionary team members have made it back in country and things like VBS, youth camps, and new church plants are all coming up quick. Please pray for the pastors, workers, and volunteers, as well as for the salvation of those who will be attending these events.

Thank you for supporting me as we work together to change the future of Central America for the Gospel!

MINISTRY UPDATE

It has been a while since my last update, but the good news is it isn't just because I'm forgetful (that is definitely a part of it though), I have FINALLY been busy! The past couple months have been full of traveling and connecting with new churches and old friends. As a Missouri boy through and through, I never thought I would say this: Texas has been VERY good to me over the past couple months.

After a bit of a slow start to the year, things began opening up for me throughout March and April. I have driven across the DFW area more times than I can count this year, and I can say without a doubt that every single traffic jam and construction zone I was stuck in was worth it (but also, come on Texas, get your roads together, man...). I left Texas with 3 new supporting church partners and tons of connections for the future. With these new supporting churches (and a few more individual supporters that have jumped on board recently) I am over 60% of my support and well on my way to being ready to fulfill my goal to officially move to Nicaragua at the end of this year!

I was also fortunate this year to be a part of Fellowship Week at BBC helping lead worship on stage. I had plenty of great conversations with pastors and was able to set up multiple dates with some new potential supporting churches!

It has been an incredible encouragement to see the culmination of events in my past being used by God to lead me to where I am now. Nearly all of my current supporters are pastors, churches, and individuals that I built relationships with from childhood through my time at Baptist Bible College. Every interaction with these friends and supporters is a reminder that we are united by the same purpose to change the future of Nicaragua with the Gospel.

To all of you: Thank you for being FOR Nicaragua.
